BALTIMORS, June 18,-President Taft was on the jump to-day. From 7 o'clock this morning until 9 o'clock to-night the President was flitting around through rain, smishine, commencements, degrees and southeastern Pennsylvania ump came to a sort of halt at Lincoln, Pa., late this afternoon and ended at the White House to-night. During the day Mr. Taft travelled only about 300 miles, but in that time he rode behind regular trains. got turned into a Presidential special and automobiled over all serts of hills and daies and muddy roads and streets lined

Gov. Stuart of Pennsylvania rode with President's private secretary, Mr. Norton, of the President most of the trip, as did the Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel started out, but he didn't get further than will the degree jump at Villanova on this

The President was busy every minute of the day. In the beginning be ran into Senator Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania. Mr. Penrose came downto the Broad street station in Philadelphia at the request of Mr. Taft and rode out in the yards while en- Bio gines shunted the private car on a turntable and finally returned it to the station. The President and Senator Penrose talked politics, and it was prett; well understood that they discussed the report that Secretary of State P. C. Knox has his eye on the Pennsylvania Gubernatorial nomination. It was even suggested that perhaps Mr. Penrose wanted Mr. Taft to persuade Secretary Knox to stay in the Cabinet and not make the race

At Villanova they made Mr. Taft a doctor of jurisprudence and Mr. Nagel a Charles F doctor of laws and clad them in long black robes and mortarboards. Before going to the exercises the President in conversation with Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia explained just why he travels so

"I wouldn't think," said the Archyou do all this travelling."

We said to me that he had heard I had been ill, but he said there were superficial evidences that it was not very serious.

"Twice I had the honor of an interview of an hour in length with him, and while we did acot accomplish what we wished in the way I desired to accomplish it he said to me in the last interview: You have not accomplished your purpose in the way that you indicated you desired to accomplish it. But I will send to the Philippines and Apostolic Delegate who will be under instructions to do with reference to this problem what is just and what the United States Government uesires." And so it turned out.

"Archinshop Guidi, a Roman prelate, a man of wide experience and a most gental and just character, came to the Philippines, and while at first it seemed impossible for us to reach a common ground we worked along in that hot climate for about a year and a half, and then we did reach a common ground and satisfactory price on each side and the purchase of the land was nade and it was transferred to the Government. transferred to the Government.

"That was not the only important cone troversy between the Church and State, for you cannot have a Government 300 years old in which trusts, charitable and otherwise, have been created, admin-istered by agents of the Church and have istered by agents of the Church and have it clear whether those trusts are civil or religious. Those had to be defined and we carried that issue on with your own good aeroplane. Flying Fish again met with Archhishop Harty of St. Louis. And now I disaster at Plum Island to-day, but was an glad to say that the whole range of con-troversies has been settled and that I be-lieve the Church is well satisfied with the the settlement as are we who prepresented the United States."

From Villanova the President was hurried down to Westchester, the home town of Representative Butler. Through Westchester he whirled in a big touring car for fifteen minutes or more. Here he met some of the prettiest girls in that part of Pennsylvania, shook hands with several score of old soldiers and ran into part o. Troop C of the Pennsylvania.

But the Speaker and Representative Rucker of Missouri, the lone member who voted against the amendment yesterday, had some remarks that they insisted on coming out.

Mr. Rucker's speech was a mournful emplaint that the regulars had seduced and deceived the insurgents and Democrats by inducing them to favor the committee discharge proposition. He said that all the teasing and loving that went on between the Republicans and Democrats yesterday reminded him of a poem which he read in his youth. Here is a sample verse of the four that Mr. Rucker read and that will appear in the Congres sional Record to-morrow morning:

Lakes. Southeastern railroad lines, thirteen in and south of the Ohio and Potomac rivers and the general managers of the railroads over the question of wages and which threatened to end in a widespread strike has been referred to Chairman Knapp of the Interstate Commerce Comssion and Commissioner of Labor Neill, the mediation board under the Erdman the mediation board under the Erdman act, for settlement.

Representatives of the conductors and trainmen to the number of two hundred or more appeared before the mediation board to-day. Among the concessions demanded by the men are a material increase in wages, the standardization of wages to a certain extent and changes in certain working conditions. The negotiations were originally carried on by Horace Baker, general manager of the Queen and Crescent Railroad, as chairman of a manager's committee, and E. P. Curtis, vice-president of the Order of Railway Conductors, and Val Fitzpatrick, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, but ended in a deadlock, with the men threatening to strike. The railroad managers then appealed to the mediation board, stating that a serious strike was threatened. It is believed that the hearing before the mediation board will last several days. act, for settlement.

Court Won't Reinstate a Street Cleaner

The Appellate Division of the Supremi Court dismissed yesterday a writ of certiorari obtained by Jonathan Hanson, a former Superintendent of Street Cleaning, against Commissioner Edwards. Hanson was dismissed for going into a saloon in his hour of duty; for taking Foreman Robert Hicks into a saloon and then failing to report him for being off post; for being off post himself and for taking Foreman Hicks around in his buggy after being warned not to do so. Hanson complained that when he was tried he was kept in a room in the custody of a policeman and his chief Court dismissed yesterday a writ of cer-custody of a policeman and his chie witness, Foreman Hicks, was detained in another room, where they couldn't communicate. He said there was no
